$$\frac{\text{Variable Geometric Mean}^2 \text{ as Multiplier} \times \text{Multiplicand}}{\text{Unit}} = \text{Scaled Product of Given Ratio}$$

Euclid's Elements Book 5 Proposition 12 Commentary :

Given a known Product and Geometric Mean Magnitudes placed Perpendicular to each other at a point, one can find its Unit Magnitude by forming its Diagonal from the Geometric Mean and the Product Magnitudes, a Perpendicular line is extended to the point that meets the axis that the Product Magnitude lies upon, forms the Unit Magnitude's point that's colinear to the Product Magnitude, of which that point can be used to form another point upon the axis that new Geometric Mean Magnitude lies upon to form another Diagonal and another Perpendicular line to that Diagonal extended to the point that meets the axis that Unit and the Initial Product Magnitudes lies upon, forms the new Product Magnitude scaled in relation to the Unit Magnitude and the new Geometric Mean Magnitude

This is called the “Georithmetical Product Scaling through Variable Geometric Mean Theorem”

On Spirals Proposition 19 Commentary :

Through the "Georithmetic Product Scaling through Variable Geometric Mean Theorem", the radius of any given circle as half of the Diameter of that circle as the Geometric Mean Magnitude and the Circumference as the Product Magnitude, the Area of the circle is realized through multiplying the radius : Diameter as the radius as Geometric Mean Magnitude to itself as the new Geometric Mean Magnitude, while using the Unit Magnitude of the radius and Circumference to form its Diagonal to form it's Perpendicular to form the new Product Magnitude with a measure of one – fourth of the Circumference Magnitude, is the linearized representation of the Area of the circle as a Product Magnitude

Inverse Geometric Mean Magnitude Intervals as Hyperbolic Spiral Analog :

Given a known Product, Geometric Mean, Unit, Diagonal Magnitudes, one can extend the Geometric Mean Magnitude by a Unit Geometric Mean Magnitude increments as a Geometric Mean Magnitude Interval, can produce the Product Magnitude accordingly to the same Unit Magnitude before using the Diagonals from the points of the Intervals and its Product Magnitude to then reflect those Diagonals across the Geometric Mean Axis then form its Parallel line at the Unit Magnitude's point away from Origin, forms the Inverse Interval and with a Perpendicular Diagonal, its Inverse Product

Chronologically 1st, Hierarchically 2nd, Pre – requisite for 2nd Noble Truth :

The timelessly indiscernible Primordial Ignorance grasped by the Intellect actualizes Craving/Agitation, becomes the Burden – Carrier condition, leads to Suffering for that Person

Chronologically 2nd, Hierarchically 2nd towards 3rd, 2nd Noble Truth :

The Ignorant Intellect in Craving/Agitation begets rebirth conjoined with Lusts leads to dissolution of ones very being both here and there, Transmigrates in becoming and in unbecoming through Craving/Agitation, is the Genesis of Suffering

The Ignorant Intellect in Contact with Corporeal Identity, Birth, Old Age, Death, Sorrow, Lamentations, Pain, Misery, Gloom, Conjoinment with the Despised, Separation from the Beloved, not getting what you desired, the Five Aggregates of Forms, Feelings, Perception, Experiences, Consciousness, is Suffering
